Thirty-three members of the committee were present. Ex-Gov. Charles Foster of Ohio and Logan H. Root of Arkansas were placed in nomination for Vice-Chairman of the committoe, and both declined in favor of H. A. Potter of New Jersey, who was unanimously chosen. The address to Gen. Harrison having been signed by each member, the committee placed itself at the disposal of the local Committee of Arrangements, the Hop. J. M. Huston, Chairman. Before adjourning the committee voted to meet in New York city at the Murray Hill Rotel at 10 o'clock A. M. next Saturday morning for the purpose of arranging the programme for the notification of Levi P. Morton.

At 11% the delegates, escorted by the local Committee of Arrangements, took carriages, and were driven to 674 Delaware street, the plain two-story brick residence of Gen. Harri-son. The exterior of the house was without decoration, not so much as a small flag being visible, but many neighboring residences were tastefully dressed in bunting. A crowd of be tween 200 and 300 people stood before the house while the committee alighted and, headed by Chairman Estee and Gov. Foster, entered G. McLain met the delegates at the door, and escorted them through the hall into the parlor, being the centre room between the drawing room and the library. These rooms and the hallway were crowded with friends and neigh-bors, including many ladies.

The members of the committee formed them-selves into a semi-circle around the parlor, which was instelled in the parlor, and the parlor of the committee of the parlor.

The members of the committee formed themselves into a semi-circle around the parior, which was tastefully decorated with cut flowers. Conspicuous among the pieces was a beautiful floral flag of double red geranium blossoms, white balsams, and larkspurs, the whole surrounded by roses, ferns, and pansies, and resting surright on the plane. Conspicuous above the mantel hung a portrait of 'Old Tippecanoe,' President William Henry Harrison, while in the hallway was another portrait of the old warrior.

When the committee had all entered the room at 12 o'clock, tien. Harrison and his wife came down the stairs. Just as Mrs. Harrison reached the last step she tripped and fell on her knees, but the General hastity assisted her to arise, and with admirable composure the distinguished linky took the General's arm and entered the parior amid respectful silence, Gen. Harrison looked pale and careworn, his expression being one of deep seriousness as he stood facing the committee, attired in a close-buttoned Prines Albert, Mrs. Harrison, on the contrary, looked very happy and bright, her Sparkling eyes and winsome manners being in charming contrast with her abundant gray hair. She was attired in white India silk trimmed in gimp, with high neck, long sleeves, and no ornaments. On her left stood Mrs. J. N. Huston, a beautiful brunette, attired in lohes slik and diamond ornaments, and beside her stood Mrs. John C. New, also in black silk, with diamonds. Mrs. Mckee, Gen. Harrison's daughter, was indianopsed and unable to leave her room, and Mrs. Russell Harrison is visiting her father in Omaha. As the ladies took their positions beside Gen. Harrison, we are commissioned by the National Republican Convention to officially sections.

Omaha. As the indices took their positions beside Gen. Harrison, Chairman Estee stepped forward and said:

"Gen. Harrison, we are commissioned by the National Republican Convention to officially notify you of your nomination as the Republican cancidate for President of the United States. In doing this we may be permitted to remind you that your selection mot the hearty approval of the whole Convention; it left no emblitered feeling or lukewarm supporters, and its petion voiced the average and the best indigment of the Convention.

"It is true distinguished gentlemen, well known to the people, who were experienced in public affairs, iliustrious in character, and worthy of the people's confidence and support, were before the Convention as candidates, and yet you were chosen. Nor was your nomination due to accident, or the result of hasty or inconsiderate deliberation. It indicated, rather, that you possessed in a more ominent degree those peculiar qualities which commended you to the people's favor. In the hour of our country's peril you cheerfully accepted a humble position in the army, went where your country most needed you, and by long and aithful service rose to higher commands and assumed graver responsibilities. Elected to the United States Senate, your enlightened and conservative statesmanship commanded the respect and inspired the confidence of the American people. Added to this the purity of your past life and your exalted private virtues is an earnest that as a candidate for President the hone-of the Republican party and the glory of our country will be safe in your keeping.

the honor of the Republican party and the glory of our country will be safe in your keeping.

"The platform adopted by the National Re-glory of our country will be safe in your keeping.

"The platform adopted by the National Republican Convention marks out with clearness and precision the creed of the party. The American system of protection to American ilabor and American products in American markets, the sacredness and purity of the ballator, the protection of American citizens, native and adopted, at home and abroad, on land and sea; the prohibition of Chinese immigration, the building up of our navy, the creetion of coast defences, and the especial cure of the old soldiers and sailors of the republic are questions which eccupy conspicuous places in our platform. These and other subjects referred to in the platform will doubtless receive your careful consideration. In conclusion we beg to express our personal satisfaction at your neumination, and we indulge the belief that your election is already assured."

At the conclusion of Judge Estee's address there was no applause. After a moment's siloneo feen, Harrison adjusted his classes, and drawing his manuscript from his bosom read his reply in a full, rich voice, and with a degree of seriousness and carnestness that visibly impressed every one. He said:

"Mn. CHAIRMANAN GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMITTEE: The official notice which you have brought of the nomination conferred upon me by the Republican National Convention, recently in session at Chicago, excites emotions of a profound though of a somewhat conflicting character. That, after full dollberation and free consultation, the representatives of the Republican party of the United States should have concluded that the great principles enunciated in the platform adopted by the Convention and the convention, the representatives of the Republican party of the United States should have concluded that the great principles enunciated in the platform adopted by the Convention on the convention of the dighty of the office and of the gravity of its duties and for which I am very grateful. Idonot assume or believe that this choice implies that the Convent principles of government and the practices in administration upon which issues are now fortunately so closify made, are so important in their relations to the national and to individual prosperity that we may expect an unusual popular interest in the campaign. Relying wholly upon the considerate judgment of our fellow clitizens and the gracious favor of God, we will confidently submit our cause to the arbitrament of a free ballot.

"The day you have chosen for this visit suggests no thoughts that are not inharmony with the occasion. The Republican party has walked in the light of the Declaration of Independence, it has lifted the shaft of patriotism upon the foundation laid at Bunker Hill. It has made the more perfect union secure by making all men free. Washington and Lincoln, Yorktown and Appomatics, the Bechration of Independence, and the Proclamation of Emancipation are naturally and worthiny associated in our thoughts.

"As soon as may be possible, I shall by letter communicate to your Chairman a more formal acceptance of the nomination, but it may be but proper to say that I have already examined the placatory with some care, and that its declarations, to some of which your Chairman has alluded are in harmony with my views. It gives me pleasure, gentlemen, to receive you in my home, and to thank you for the cordial manner in which you have conveyed your official message."

Long and hearty applause echoed through the house as Gen. Harrison concluded his address and certifaily grasped the extended him of Chairman Estee, who then presented him with the official copy of his notification. Secretary Blisbee then handed the General an engrossed copy of the Republican platform, The formalities of the occasion having concluded, Gen, Harrison instantly became the genial host, while Chairman Estee, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced each member of the committee as they passed before the General and the ladies. Several of them were accompanied by their wives, while wiss Iulu S. Joseph of Nashville accompanied Delegate Dougherty, the Secretary of the committee. After the recention General and Mrs. Harrison circulated separately and promiseuously about the rooms, chatting familiarly with old friends, and hospitably entertaining the strangers, in which endeavors increased.

charming daughters. Gen. Harrison invited the members of the committee to remain and partake of an elegant lunch which was spread in the dining room adjoining the library.

After the committee had been served, the General and his son came out and served the hungry newspaper men with the good things of his table. Mr. Jackson, a reporter, was overcome by heat while in the drawing room during the speech making, all the rooms being uncomfortably crowded and the day suitry. His friends assisted the sick man out into the yard and under the shade of a tree. As soon as Gen. Harrison heard of the matter, at the conclusion of the ceremonies, he hastened to the door and instructed his son to bring Mr. Jackson into the house and send for a physician. The sick man was taken up stairs, where he lay in a perilous condition for some hours, but late in the afternoon was reported as recovering.

While the committee were at lunch the two dozea inckmen who were waiting outside formed themselves into an impremotu procession, black and white mixed, wearing their shabby livery and misth hats, and boldly marched into the front door and stood in the hall until the General came out and shook each grimy hand with a vim that showed he appreciated the attention.

CINCINNATI'S EXPOSITION.

The Centennial Show Opened With Attractive Exercises. CINCINNATI, July 4 .- At 9 o'clock this morning the gates of the exposition were thrown open and early visitors began to pour in. They found the machinery idle, as it was not to start until the widow of President Polk, from her home in Nashville, should give the signal. At 11 o'clock the formal opening ex-ercises began in Music Hall, which is reserved for a public resting place and amusement hall. The stage was illed with the May festival chorus and the Cincinnati orchestra.

The entrance of Gov. Foraker, Gov. Thayer of Nebraska, Gov. Gray of Indiana, ex-Gov Bryan of Kentucky, Gov. Beaver of Pennsylvania with their brilliant staffs, the Hon. John Sherman and the Hon, Benjamin Butterworth was signalized by repeated bursts of applause was signalized by repeated bursts of applause as the several dignitaries were recognized. About this time a thunder storm broke ever the city clearing the atmosphere and cooling it to a most comfortable degree. After a choral number, an eloquent prayer was offered by the Rev. George B. Thayer of Cincinnati.

Gov. Foraker made the welcoming address. He began by naming the Governors and others present who were on the platform. Each name received applause, but when, last on the list, he named "that illustrious son of Ohio, Senator John Sherman," there was a tempest of applause that bid lair to interrunt the proceedings. Mr. Sherman's dignified countenance showed that the tribute touched him, and when Gov. Foraker could be heard, he said: "I have heard that name cheered before quite recently."

Gov. Foraker made a very brief address.

showed that the tribute touched him, and when Gov. Foraker could be heard, he said: "I have heard that name cheered before quite recently."

Gov. Foraker made a very brief address, making the point that this exposition was national in its character, intended to be illustrative and commemorative of the progress of Ohio and the central States within the past century. It was now but a few minutes of 12 ociock, and President Allison announced that they would wait for the signal from Mrs. Polk to start the machinery. Suddenly a gong in the hall sounded. A ripple of applause answered the signal, and Gov. Foraker explained to the audience that the gong had been sounded to the audience that the gong had been sounded by electricity touched by the finger of Mrs. Polk at her home in Nashville. He proposed three hearty Buckeye cheers expressive of the appreciation of the estimable woman, and her participation in these ceremonies. The cheers were given, men rising and swinging their hats. Then little Mary Allison, the 10-year-old daughter of President James Allison, stepped to the side of the stare, and, pressing an electric button, gave twolve signals on the gong, and put in motion the ponderous machinery of the exposition. When her task had been gracefully accomplished her father kissed her, and amid the applause of the assemblage presented her to the distinguished guests. The Hallelujah Chorus followed. President Allison then formally declared the exposition open. Atter this brief addresses were made by Govs. Thayer, Gray, and Beaver, Lieut,-Gov, Bryan, Benjamin Butterworth, and John Sherman, and the great parade started promptly at 2½, and moved without serious delay over a sixmile route. It required two liours to pass a given point, and was witnessed throughout by delighted crowds. The rain and cooler atmosphere kave to participants and spectators a pleasant afternoon's entertainment.

A valuable gray dray horse that a boy was leading home from work on Broadway on Tuesday night, caught one of its shoes in the frog of the car track at Twenty-seventh street, and sprained the fetlock joint so badly that it gave the animal intense pain to try to walk. Bystanders stopped the boy when he undertook to lead the animal on again, and told him to send around to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and get an ambulance to carry the horse to its stable.

the boy said, "and it won't come unless the $5 the boy said, and it work come unless the fee is paid."

The bystanders appealed to two policemen, who also said that it would cost somebody $5 to get the ambulance. "Bergh, Jr., will only remove dead horses free." the policemen said. One of the citizens got excited and started to investigate things for himself. He found the ambulance in a stable adjoining the society headquarters at Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street.

"Do you charge $5 to send that ambulance to disabled borses?" was asked.

"Sometimes, not always," one of the society officers said. "We give the ambulance free, you see, but it costs the owner of the horse what the livery man charges for a team to drag the ambulance, and that depends on the distance the ambulance goes. It would cost $50 a month for the society to keep a team of its own, and it hasn't that much money to spend in that way, although it would like to,"

JOHN A. BECKWITH TRIES HIS HAND. He Palls, However, to Make as Big : Racket as His Brother Did.

There was a tremendous racket at Long Beach yesterday afternoon. John A. Beckwith made it celebrating. Mr. Beckwith is the brother of Insurance Broker William H. He set them off down on the beach away from any habitation, but failed to create any such blow-up as his brother had.

Broker Beckwith got a cracker himself just like the one he let off on Monday night, and at the same store, and cut if open in the presence of agroup of friends. They wanted to see if it was loaded with dynamite or gan cotten. It contained nothing but gunpowder. He insists that it was a fire-rencker he set eff, and not one of the Chinese namboo lombs, as one of the citizens who was watching him said it was.

United States Consul Ben Folsom, the cousing of Mrs. Cleveland, moved about the deck of the Brit-tannic yesterday afternoon watching Mr. Depew's leave-taking with interest. Mr. Folsom came down to the steamer straight from the Union Cini, where Mr. J. I. Spoilord gave a tarewell dumer in his honor to a little company of friends. Mr. Foloson was dressed in a check suit, and had under the arm a pasteloard box that came to the steamer by capress. It contained some very handeone lowers that Mrs. Cleveland sent to him from Washington.

THE HEATHEN HEART RESPONDED An Incident to Set You Thinking, Reported

by Wong Chin Pos. There is a certain tempting trait in the heathen which, if practised more extensively by their other neighbors, the world at large would feel better contented, and possibly produce lesser crime.

A poor young Jew and his wife lived at 47

Mott street, who were as usual in the clothing business, or rather in the talloring business. On last Monday the busband was driven to desperation financially. He approached his wife, and asked her to allow him to take her only jewelry-a gold watch chain-to the pawn shop to realize the amount necessary ($50) to pay for some goods which were absolutely necessary for the week's trade. When this was token to the nearest pawn shop the only result was an offer of $15 on the chain, which was far short of the amount required.

Is despair both husband and wife went to their neighbors and tried to borrow the required $50, offering the aforesaid chain as a collateral. The Jews of the neighborhood and the Christians were, each approached, but, alas! no one was able or willing to advance the amount. Finally, and in despair, and it was near 9 octock in the evening, the pair saily made their way to an old Chinese merciant at 10 Chatham square, to whom the Jew and his wife presented their special case of distress, and presenting the chain, as they did before to others, as a security.

Mr. Yuet Sing, the old Chinaman, lowered his head, and over his glasses to looked at the pair steadily, and then asked them a few questions as to what they wanted the money for.

"Without this money we cannot have the goods, which means that we will be without food or home."

Yuet Sing, without saying a word, enened his money drawer and counted out a handful of crisp new bills—$50. With the same non-concerned air he handed to the anxious man the little "boodle," at the same time the latter handed Yuet Sing the gold chain, which was wrapped up in brown paper.

"What's that?" queried the astonished Chinaman.

"That's the chain to secure the $50 you just. quired $50, offering the aforesaid chain as a

"What's that?" queried the astonished Chinaman.

"That's the chain to secure the $50 you just loaned me. That's my wife's wedding present."

"Well, then, lot her take it home. You taked money, go home, too. When you catchee him no forgettee bling him back. That's all."

The astonished and happy Jews thanked Mr. Yuet Sing almost with tears in their eyes. This was done before the reporter's own eyes, and when the Jew and his wife left The Son man usked Mr. Yuet Sing why he dight' want any security for his $50 from an apparent stranger.

"I know where that man and his wife live," he said, "and this is one of the ways I have of teaching these people how to deal with each other. It's only $50, and if such a small sum will make a man and his wife lose their honor among their neighbors, why then they are welcome to it."

SHOOTING GALLERIES BOOMING.

Influences which Bring Customers to them Four men stood before the short, well-worn counter and two hard-working men in their shirt sleeves stood behind it. The men in front were firing shots from air guns at a row of wooden figures twenty-five feet away, at swinging glass balls that were suspended from the ceiling, and at the image of a woman that swung majestically to and fro. The men beswung majestically to and fro. The men behind the counter were reloading the guns and collecting five cents for every three shots. The place was a typical Bowery shooting gallery. The Bowery has any number of these places tucked away in its rows of dance halls, beer saloons, and fancy goods stores, and the fact that all of them have of late been doing a thriving business attracted the attention of a reporter. During a slight full in business, one of the coatless young men explained it:

"You see there is always something going on to help along this business. If everything else fails us, there is the literature known as dimenovels. Plenty of people besides foolish boys read of the hairbreadth escapes and impossible lights and marvellous shooting ability of the heroes that are glowingly told in them. This gives them an idea that they would like to learn how to shoot, and, of course, they go to a shooting agalery. In the fall of the year there are always a lot of target companies going out, and the members of them frequent galleries for practice, in hopes that they will soon become so prelicient in the use of a rifle that they will win the first prize. Under ordinary circumstances the spring and early summer are the worst seasons of the year for us, but Buffalo Bill, with his howling Indiana, his cowboys, and all the other adjuncts of wild Western life, has given the shooting galleries a boom that will ride them on a perfect freshet of prosperity until the fail." hind the counter were reloading the guns and

Mrs. Ming Returns from a Year's Visit to Her Chinese Reintlves. About a year ago Mr. Young Ah Ming, a Chinese New York eigar dealer, returned to China with his good-looking American wife and their three half-breed children-boys of 6 and 2 years of age and a girl of 4. It was the first venture of any New York Chinaman to take an American wife home to his parents. All sorts of evil was predicted at the time by the American neighbors and the orthodox Chinamen for this cosmopolitan family.

Their neighbors, as well as the orthodox heathens, were greatly disappointed, though not sorry, yesterday afternoon, when a carriage drove up to the door of 43 Mott street, and out stepped Mrs. Ah Ming and her entire family, happy and heathy as ever. Mrs. Ah Ming savs: "It was such a lovely trip, and one of the happiest and most profitable years of my life has been this year of sojourn in China."

Such was Mrs. Ming's enthusias mabout her life among the Chinese women of the higher classes that she wanted more than a dozen tongues to tell it to her American neighbors who surrounded her all the afternoon and until late in the evening.

Middletown Celebrates Her Incorporation

as a City. MIDDLETOWN, July 4.-Middletown takes the occasion of the national holiday to celebrate with great pomp and display its advancement to the dignity of the youngest born and thirtieth city of the Empire State. The act of incorporation was among the last measures to pass at the late session of the Legislature, and to receive the approval of Gov. Hill. The public joy and enthusiasm over the event is finding expression in the elaborate decoration of public and private buildings, in a grand military and evice parade to the blare of many bands, and in effusive floods of oratory, and tonight in brilliant illuminations and fireworks. There is an enormous crush and crowd of visitors here from the country roundabout. Middistown was founded in 1786, when a small Congregational church edilice and a schoolhouse were built by neighboring farmers at the intersection of two country roads. The cornfleids and cow pastures of that date formed the site of the handsome and prosperous young city of to-day, with its 13,000 inhabitants and $3,300,000 of assessed valuation of property, and which, as the metropolis of the Orange county milk district and the connecting point of five important railroads, has a promising future before it. to receive the approval of Gov.
